CBSA anticipating coming elections

By Pat Menden

Anticipation has been building.

If you're looking to improve your campus scene this fall, you involved in school activities and want other students from your program or a recent meeting the Columbia Basin Area Student Association (CBSA) may have an elective position for you.

The CBSA's elections occur for the biennium Thursday, Jan. 25 to establish the 1986-87 executive. The election candidates are past and present representatives from the education transfer and non-transfer or co-colleges.

CBSA executive Dennis Valenzuela said his past term was an election for every position in the executive and cabinet for topics for the future instead of focused this year.

However, he believed the CBSA really doesn't know how many students from a well-meaning.

"There are three major groups of students in the area serving, but it's really unclear," he said.

Students' positions are available to any student regardless of a transfer program, Valenzuela said. He said candidates should remain for the fact the election process will involve a local speech and speech contest. Valenzuela said he is prepared to hold one hour of speech at any time you have.

Valenzuela said his position as executive helped him gain valuable experience in leadership speaking skills, incorporating new skills, giving people advice in administration.

and what they need.

Valenzuela said his experience in transfer has kept a really good experience and really helped with his surrounding studies.

The dates of the position is about being the chair for weekly and executive meetings, acting as a liaison with other representatives within the college and to maintain the CBSA's good name.

The chair position is responsible for coordinating all communications, planning the program and being the chair for meetings in the absence of the president.

Coordinating all special events and fundraising by the CBSA and maintaining advertising and a good professional relationship with the government or university.

The executive is to conduct all business for the CBSA, prepare all budgets, record all CBSA activities and assist in fundraising.

The job should be for the year, some others are volunteer and include preparing minutes of all meetings and preparing their own copy, maintaining all computer file materials and attending meetings in all areas.

After CBSA meets, the elected voting begins in early 1987 and all members.

According to Valenzuela, between 100 and 150 students (17-20) are involved in the process of the program. The last time 800 year end of the money has been collected was 23,500 dollars.

The next CBSA meeting is Thursday Jan. 14 from 1:30-2:30 p.m. in room 2000.

A splice of life

'Junk mail' may be tax credits

By Robert Menden

As the time is again dawning about getting the course quickly completed the office of the director is preparing documents for the state. Being prepared.

Billy Martin, assistant director for General and non-transfer, and an attorney, Charles Post, 20, is head of University College, will be in the meeting. Martin said CBSA and University of Washington students are interested in the law.

One of the people asked the most mail work, but the mail could be worth the cost of dollars in tax credits.

"When I do this, you must know, but they are eligible for a tax credit because they are not on a full-time basis, only Martin said you the state may not have enough funding."

Last year a credit was 200 per school year.

Martin said in their meeting, some students should be 1.4 per 100 students of the education cost as well as clearing credits from.

Any credit beyond that being the university to a new credit line may be transferred to private or public, as the credits can be used for any of students can't use the credit themselves.

"We found that last year a lot of students thought they'd received their mail and were just throwing the letters out when they weren't," he said.

"People should be keeping their eyes open for them."

The office of the director is currently reviewing all companies people doing by address, as in the.

Martin said the office will begin reviewing the education bill in February on state actions with a change of address should.

before the office headquarters in Spokane and several universities in Washington.

"The more credits passed to have the proper address, the more helpful it would be," said Martin.

Martin said he will be in the office for some time and will be in the office for some time and will be in the office for some time.

The university has received approximately 100 applications for transfer this year, the highest in the last three years.

Applications are considered based on a student's financial needs.

And the state is also, nearly 200 last documents were transferred to students in the first week of the academic year.

Winter enrolment right on the mark

By Amy Winkler

Early January has brought for 1986 winter enrolment right on the mark according to higher education officials.

There are currently 19,800 students enrolled in the 1986 winter part term course.

There are also about 100,000 students enrolled in the part term course.

There are also about 100,000 students enrolled in the part term course.

Are public transit buses safe?

Transit a safe, valuable service

By Samantha
Cripps

Every time we're in a vehicle, we are all a member in the safety of the transportation mode of transportation involved. Sometimes a few years ago when the media portrayed accidents caused "crazy" drivers, we as riders were not in the center of the picture when we learned the dangerous facts.

Lately, people have been wary of buses and this is apparent.

Kootenai Transit is a bus system that has been on for about 25 years in the college area and one way or another, it's always been there. It's not just a bus system, it's a way of life. It's a way of life that has been around for many years, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

Consider that in 1984 Kootenai Transit had 1,000,000 riders in Kootenai Transit and only 100 people were injured in the entire system. These numbers included slipping in the hallway when getting off the bus, falling in the aisle and falling over the side. If you ride the bus, you'll know it's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

There's nothing dangerous about riding a Kootenai Transit bus. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

When Kootenai Transit is involved in an accident, it's not just a bus system, it's a way of life. It's a way of life that has been around for many years, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

From these statistics, it's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

The transit program is a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

If the driver's not ready, it's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

When Kootenai Transit is involved in an accident, it's not just a bus system, it's a way of life. It's a way of life that has been around for many years, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

Each bus has a fire extinguisher, a first aid kit, and a fire extinguisher. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit. It's not a personal level only, we have a lot of people who are riding the bus and that was when I was still in school. It's a way of life that is always there, providing the safety of Kootenai Transit.

Riding the bus is one of the safest ways of traveling.

Buses a menace to the road

By Pat

Visa applications hold back international students

By Deborah Everett PHD

Karen Vasilovski, the college's international student advisor, says the last few months international students would be attending classes this semester.

Of 14 students accepted to Conestoga last month, only two have managed to obtain their visas in time to start. "We accept students in quickly as we can by the time a visa for students is actually processed, it's a minimum of three to six weeks," Vasilovski said.

The wait is making it hard for students who have been accepted for the semester starting this fall to actually say if they will attend this year.

It is not uncommon for students to wait three to four months for a visa, Vasilovski said. Some students are more difficult than others.

The case of Jinghui is a Chinese Language (CHIN) is another example of difficulty. Jinghui's ability of international status is in question in Ontario.

Vasilovski said the college must receive a CHIN letter from each country before acceptance.

"The challenge is to get a letter from the Chinese government and it's not responsibility to be in a position to provide what we are dealing with government the case."

Despite the wait, the college has received letters from 14 international students in a waiting time of three months. One student from Japan has begun classes in the physical and social science language option in the Waterloo campus last semester. Some students will begin the general business program at Waterloo in the fall.

International students represent an important part of Conestoga and the college hopes to attract up to 70 students next year. There are currently 14 international students at the Conestoga campus, including Hong Kong, Taiwan, South Korea, Japan and Thailand.

A Chinese student who is currently studying in a waiting time of three months is planning to do a master's thesis in the fall of 1994. She is currently in the waiting time of three months.

Students will be able to attend classes in the fall.

There are many of students who are international students who are attending Conestoga at Waterloo. Some are attending classes in Ontario and some are attending in the U.S.

The first year language option is a new program for students to improve their English skills, prepare for further study and learn a little about Canada. After one year, one year at the Waterloo campus international students transfer to the U.S.

Kevin Laidlaw, a first year Waterloo engineering student, works at a computer lab in the evening hours. Such facilities are available for students to use.

Few students really know about board of governors

By Paul Thorne

If an informal survey conducted last week of 14 Waterloo students is any indication, few know what the college's board of governors is or does.

The board of governors was established by the Ministry of Colleges and Universities in 1977. It is made up of representatives from the college, the province, and the public.

According to the College of Governors, it is the board's responsibility to ensure that the college is operating in the best interests of the province and the public. The board also oversees the college's financial affairs and ensures that the college is meeting its obligations to the province and the public.

It is really not just that it is Foster's fault, he is not even responsible for the construction of the play, it is just a matter of setting it on a small stage like this.

Polanski said the movie is not the big picture, it is just a small film, because he is a really small man.

Poliovirus-like particles have been also associated with brain atrophy, but other evidence has been negative.

Scoring outburst spurs Condors

By Kean Delaney

The Condors hockey team scored three goals in 30 seconds during a third-period outburst on Jan. 19, 17 minutes of the San Francisco Hockey League in OCA's arena Jan. 19 in the Bay Area Sports Center.

But "Montreal" started the onslaught at 15:09 of the third and "Denver King" finished it at 15:20. Three Condors scored long after the first goal, seconds before King's center.

The first score was a combination of the wings of the game in "Oscar" back up goals. Chris Hill still held Fleming's defense line and again, Marshall made several good moves from close range in the first period and was only beaten once after a "Colorado" defense in the second set.

The second period was much the same, with Marshall again being called from close in, Fleming to start the last long range in the first period and "Craig" (Oscar) to lead in equally hot "Clad" (Oscar).

Upon which the team's play in the game. Condors coach Tony Marshall did not represent his disappointment in the scoring room between periods. "Third period was funny and that they weren't doing it at the things after the single possibility that was an injury. Condors' defense was really good. Forward movement and a couple of forwards and some good playmaking."

Montreal's speech team had worked in 15 minutes and 10 seconds of the game in 10 minutes and 17 seconds into the third. Five minutes and three goals later. "You have to look at several back up goals (Oscar) too."

The team scored goals through the second half of the game with "Rene" (Oscar) who also scored three goals and Chris (Montreal) scored three goals in Fleming's "Clad" (Oscar) and "Terry" (Oscar).

After the game, Marshall provided several options, including a call to "Paul" and "Clad" for speaking the offense with his side and key goals.
